

How do I complete the Upper-Level Course Requirement?

There are three different ways to complete this requirement, and you only need to complete one of these paths: 1) enroll in an independent study (i.e., PSYC 500, 550, & 560), 2) take any 300-level course beyond the two required 300s, or 3) take any 400-level course beyond the two required 400s.

See: http://www.dickinson.edu/info/20150/psychology/1443/the_major

How do I get courses from my Study Abroad program to count towards the requirements for my psychology major?

If your courses are on the preapproved courses list on the study abroad pages on our department website you do not need to do anything. The registrar will count the courses for transfer as indicated.

If a course is not on the preapproved courses list (and you think the course would transfer to Dickinson as a psychology course) email Professor Helweg-Larsen a detailed course description or syllabus. She will decide how it will transfer to the psychology department at Dickinson. She might give you conditional preapproval and need to see (after you return) the final course syllabus, descriptions of assignments, your completed/graded assignments, etc. before deciding how it transfers. After your return she will sign your 'Enrollment in Another Institution' form.

See: http://www.dickinson.edu/info/20150/psychology/1441/study_abroad/2

No, the only prerequisites for a 400-level course in the Dickinson Psychology Department are 201 and 202.

See: http://www.dickinson.edu/homepage/475/psychology_curriculum

