

National Survey of Student Engagement (NSSE)

Population: First-Year and Senior students

Frequency and Method: An online survey is now being administered every three years. A First-Year cohort takes the survey in the spring and again in the spring of their senior year. The instrument is administered by NSSE through the University of Indiana. We provide a list of ID's and emails. They facilitate the invitations and reminders using the scripts we provide. We have begun to supplement the reminders with personal notes from both the Provost and the President.

Affiliations: The NSSE Institute works with institutions and other organizations to collect and disseminate research on promising practices and to assist schools in using data for institutional improvement and student success initiatives. (Description as it appears on their website).

Description: The NSSE has been accepted across the nation in higher education
